Wilson Vetoes Agricultural Bill Carrying Daylight Law Repeal

Senators Discuss Possibility And Probability
Of Keeping Wilson In Washington Instead
Of Him Going On Cross Country TourOne Says President Can More Effectively
Serve Country At Desk
Than On The Stump

RESOLUTION TO BE PRESENTED

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 12—An attempt to prevent the President from making his cross country tour by keeping him in daily attendance on the Senate Foreign Relations committee was discussed by opponents of the League of Nations today. Senator Moses will introduce a resolution requesting that the President attend the sessions which will begin at ten a. m. each day. "I think the President could more effectively serve his country in this manner than by making stump speeches," said Senator Moses. Many Democratic senators would like to see President Wilson take advantage of the invitation of the Senate Committee in Washington to stay with them in order that they may have first hand information on the many points which are confusing and which are casting doubt on the efficacy of the league.

PITTSBURGH BREWERY OFFICIALS
ENTER DEMURRERS TO CHARGES

PITTSBURGH, July 12—Demurrers were filed before Federal Court Judge W. H. S. Thompson in the United States District Court here today by the eleven officials of the Pittsburgh Brewing company who were named by U. S. District Attorney Crawford on charges of violating the war time prohibition act in selling a quantity of beer to a local saloonkeeper which contained more than the legal one-half of one per cent. alcohol. The brewers are seeking a definite ruling on what constitutes a violation of the act.

Should the position of the government be maintained it is said at the office of the U. S. District Attorney that every brewer in this section of the state or in that district known as the Western District, who has been selling beer of over one half of one per cent. alcohol will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

There was a fair sized audience at the West Side Church last evening to hear the concert given by the Sunday School orchestra under the direction of Prof. Oscar W. Schaeffer.

Every number on the program was a feature number but the real outstanding piece of artistry was a trio arranged for violin, cello and piano, by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schaeffer and Miss Myra Shaw. While these artists have often delighted Clearfield audiences it is a question if they ever produced music as beautiful as last night's number.

Taken from any standpoint it was a rare musical treat all through and it is to be hoped that the same performers will soon have something of the same nature to offer.

HALF MILLION DAMAGE AT BRADFORD

BRADFORD, July 12—At least a half million dollars damage was done by the storm which hit this place Thursday. The local chapter of the Red Cross is today making an inspection of the devastated district with a view to giving relief, and sanitation is in charge of the Sanitary Department of the 112th Infantry which has volunteered for the work.

BEATEN SENSELESS AT HIS DESK

NEW YORK, July 12—Beaten senseless while sitting in his office, Gardiner C. Hull, senior member of the stationary firm of Hull & Dappish, is believed to be dying. He was found by a porter who had been absent only fifteen minutes. Police declined to state whether the motive is known. It was not robbery as his personal effects were not disturbed.

Regular monthly meeting of W. C. T. U. will be held at home of Mrs. M. J. Bowes on Nichols street Monday evening.

MR. BEATTY PURCHASED THE
MAHAFFEY TIMES

It will be a surprise to many of our readers to learn that the Mahaffey Times has been purchased by J. S. Beatty, of Punxsutawney, Pa., from Thomas V. Bowen who has been associated with the paper almost the entire time since it was first published in November 1911, first as a mechanic, second as editor and manager and finally as owner and publisher.

The new editor was formerly a linotype operator on the Punxsutawney Spirit and Indiana Gazette and has just returned from overseas service. He edited a service paper for several months following the signing of the armistice.

His father Harry Beatty, of Punxsutawney, is a native of Bell township and thus Editor Beatty is returning to his "native heath" by locating at Mahaffey.

The Progress welcomes the new proprietor to the field of Clearfield county journalism and wishes him every success in his venture.

THE MESSAGE OF THE COLUMBUS CENTENARY

Rev. Dr. H. R. Bender will preach at the union services in the High School Auditorium at 7:30 Sunday evening. Dr. Bender will talk on "The Message of the Columbus Centenary Exhibition to All Churches." Dr. Bender spent three Sundays at Columbus and is exceptionally well qualified to speak on this subject.

The Centenary movement is vital to all churches and as many as can possibly do so should attend tomorrow's service at Trinity church and hear Dr. Bender's message.

OILING DIRT STREETS

The work of oiling the dirt streets of the borough with a view to keeping down the dust was begun yesterday by a crew of men under the direction of Street Commissioner Graham.

DEFENDANT SAYS
"IT CAN'T BE DID"

Some two weeks ago Samuel E. Maines, of Paradise, through his attorney Deputy Attorney General W. L. Swoope, entered suit in the Clearfield county courts against his neighbor W. A. Henchbarger in which he sought to recover $1000 for injury to his feeling, peace of mind and general reputation in the community by reason of certain statements made to and about the prosecutor by the defendant in the presence of a couple of other neighbors of the parties.

The defendant by his attorneys Chase & Chase makes answer to the charge in an affidavit of defense filed in the Prothonotary's office yesterday, a copy of which appears herewith.

Stripped of its legal phraseology he statement admits the statements alleged to be damaging but will require that strict proof be made of the allegations that the plaintiff's reputation and standing in the community could be ripped, damaged, assaulted or dynamited to the amount named in the bill of particulars filed. But we are unable to pass upon that point, as that will be done by a jury later. Here is the statement, read it for yourself:

"W. A. Henchbarger, the party upon whom the plaintiff's statement in the above action was served, claims to have a full, true and complete defense to all of the plaintiff's claims in the above stated action, however denying the necessity of making answer to the said statement, the nature and character of which is as follows:

1st. The first paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is admitted.

2d. The second paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied for the purpose of requiring proof thereof.

3d. The third paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied and strict proof is required of all the facts therein set forth and especially of the fact therein alleged that the said Samuel E. Maines is a good, true, honest and virtuous inhabitant of this Commonwealth and requires strict proof that the said Samuel E. Maines remained free and was esteemed in repute, a person of good name, fame, credit and reputation. However, strict proof is required of the whole of the plaintiff's statement.

4th. The fourth paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied.

5th. The fifth paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied in whole and it is further stated that the defendant herein never believed that the plaintiff could be brought into public disrepute or that he could be injured and defamed in the esteem of his neighbors.

6th. As to the sixth paragraph of the plaintiff's statement the defendant denies and requires strict proof thereof and especially as to that part of the said paragraph wherein it says further that the said plaintiff has been greatly hurt and injured in his good name, fame and reputation aforesaid and that he could be brought into disrepute and disrepute among his neighbors.

7th. As to the seventh paragraph of the plaintiff's statement same is denied, strict proof being required thereof.

Signed: W. A. HENCHBARGER.

SENATOR BRANDEGEE
RUTHLESSLY SCORES
LEAGUE OF NATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 12—The Republican Publicity Association, thru its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington Headquarters:

"Americanism will not lack for vigorous protection as long as the Senate contains such members as Hon. Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut. He does not mince words in stating his position on the league of nations, and his determination to stand to the last in upholding the oath he took to defend the Constitution. In a statement recently issued by Mr. Brandegee he uses the following language:

"This country has had three critical shocks.

"First, achieving its independence.

"Second, framing its constitution.

"Third preserving the Union under the constitution.

"We are now confronted with the fourth crisis. It is, shall we preserve our independence or surrender it?"

"I am an American and nothing else. I am a United States Senator and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. I have taken oath to preserve and protect the Constitution of the United States and, so help me God, I am going to do it. I thoroughly realize the responsibility which rests upon me and I propose to use my best judgment that God has given me without fear or favor.

"The so-called covenant for the league of nations which the Executive has made, is, in my mind, a hideous monstrosity. I shall not vote for it till hell freezes over, and I think that event is probably somewhat remote. I am not to be lured by any lingo about 'humanity or the moral forces of the world or voices in the air.' I am for upholding the American flag and not for hauling it down. I am for the Stars and Stripes, and not for the milk white flag of neutral internationalism. I am for the America of George Washington. I believe America can best serve humanity by minding its own business. I am not ready to cast this country into the witches' cauldron of international complications. Are we to tax our people, conscript our boys and fight the battles of the world to please somebody's idealism? I am utterly opposed to the league and in favor of peace. I do not believe it will become a party issue, but I will leave the Republican party the minute it stands for the league."

In giving utterance to those trenchant expressions of patriotism Senator Brandegee knows that he but echoes the sentiments of an overwhelming majority of his New England constituents. They have inherited the blood of distinguished Revolutionary ancestors, who did not hesitate to declare and fight for their independence from the oppression of the most powerful nation in the world. The country is now threatened with coercion by force of arms unless we are willing to surrender the independence won by the fathers of the country, and consent to slip back into the condition of subservience from which the Revolution rescued us. The odds against us now are great but not so heavy as those that confronted the Colonists. The world never saw more virile courage than was exhibited by those great men. Is it possible that the American quality of patriotism is not of as high a standard now as it was in '76?"

VALUABLE POINTERS IN REGARD TO NEW FISH LAWS

State Game Commissioner E. W. Kelly returned home last evening from Harrisburg where he gained information in regard to both newly passed hunting and fishing laws that will be learned with interest by local sportsmen.

On the 9th day of this month a bill was signed by Governor Sprout legalizing a catch of 25 trout in one day and with no size limit as a curtailment. The action to this and several other bills mentioned below takes effect on the 11th day of July 1919. A statement must first be sent to the State Fish department however, giving the names of streams in which the applicant wishes to use either of the methods. The permit will be issued by the department free of charge together with complete instructions so that no misunderstanding will occur.

Another change made in the game laws of the state is that from now on both skunks and musk-rats will be fully protected from out of season hunting.

The bill fails to make mention, however upon whom the responsibility for the enforcement of the latter order would occur.

COALPORT LAD KILLED ON RAILROAD TRACK

Anzo Pisonesti, six year old son of Olandino Pisonesti, of Coalport was instantly killed at that place on Wednesday evening. The young lad had been visiting at his aunt's a short distance from his home and when called by his mother started home. In order to reach there it was necessary to cross the tracks leading to the Smokeless Coal company tipples. There was a string of flats on the spur and just when the lad was crawling over the flats were moved. The youngster was caught under the wheels and cut in two.

R-34 WINGING WAY TO BRITAIN.
LAND TOMORROW MORNING AT SUNRISE

BULLETIN. The British Dirigible R-34 was only 834 miles out from her goal at seven o'clock this morning and despite the fact that her speed was reduced by a disabled engine she was making good time and is expected to land about four o'clock tomorrow morning. The last message received from her gave her position as above and stated that she was flying four thousand feet above the water and the clouds. Her commander added that they were about to descend to have a look at the surface of the sea. The British Admiralty have wirelessed the R-34 suggesting that she put in at Pulham, Norfolk, instead of East Fortune, Scotland. Storms raging off the coast of Scotland make the landing hazardous there.

WORK OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY NOT
LOCAL, BUT COUNTY AND DISTRICT WIDE

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania (of which Clearfield C. A. S. is an auxiliary), held at Uniontown, Pa., June 4th, 5th, and 6th, one of the main points of discussion was the lack of publicity given to the work of the Society, its members being generally too busy to tell the public what they were doing.

The present officers are: President, Mrs. Frank B. Reed 1st Vice President, Mrs. H. B. Powell 2nd Vice President, Mrs. A. E. Leitzinger.

Secretary, Mrs. Chas. T. Kurtz Asst. Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Dufton Treasurer, Mrs. Roll B. Thompson Supt. of Home, Miss Grace Hoyt. The Society is very grateful to its friends for all the generous donations and support it has received, especially since moving into the new home. For, though Clearfield gets its share of the State appropriation given to Western Pennsylvania, the amount received is by no means large enough to carry on its work, leaving a great deal to be raised by the local society. Among the many gifts received none are more deserving of thanks and mention than those of time and work. Sunday School classes have sewed for the children. The play ground fence was put up by volunteer workers. For these we are most grateful but there still remains much to be provided for the upkeep of the Home.

An electric washer is badly needed, also a lawn mower. Two or three half high-chairs could be used in the dining room. Paint is needed for the fence. Then healthy children have healthy appetites. Think of the potatoes and all sorts of vegetables and fruits that can be used! We appeal to every friend of friendless children in Clearfield county for help to carry on this work which is not a new work and which is only caring for "our own."

WORK OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY NOT LOCAL, BUT COUNTY AND DISTRICT WIDE

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania (of which Clearfield C. A. S. is an auxiliary), held at Uniontown, Pa., June 4th, 5th, and 6th, one of the main points of discussion was the lack of publicity given to the work of the Society, its members being generally too busy to tell the public what they were doing.

The Clearfield Society feels that it has been remiss in this respect to a very large degree, thus giving rise to much misconception of its work. The Society is first, last and all the time a child placing agency, the object being to provide for the welfare of destitute and neglected children by such means as shall be best for them and for the community. While the Clearfield County Society is located at Clearfield, it is in no sense a borough organization, but children are cared for from any county in its district, which embraces practically all of Western Pennsylvania. It has children today in good homes in Washington, Mercer, Clinton, Allegheny, Green and many other counties and is caring for many from the same counties. It often being better for children to be taken entirely away from their old surroundings. Wards of the Society find a refuge in the Children's Home where they are boarded and cared for until good permanent homes are found, it being the aim to bring the "homeless child" and the "childless home" together.

During the past year we have had in our care ninety children. Of these some have been returned to friends, some have found free homes, two have died, been legally adopted, two have died, some placed in institutions and we still have 46 for whom we are responsible. No child is placed in a home own."

that has not been investigated by the Society. Every child placed is visited and every care possible is taken to insure a happy home and square deal for every child.

The present officers are: President, Mrs. Frank B. Reed, 1st Vice President, Mrs. H. B. Powell, 2nd Vice President, Mrs. A. E. Leitinger.

Secretary, Mrs. Chas. T. Kurtz, Asst. Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Dufton, Treasurer, Mrs. Roll B. Thompson, Supt. of Home, Miss Grace Heyt. The Society is very grateful to its friends for all the generous donations and support it has received, especially since moving into the new home. For, though Clearfield gets its share of the State appropriation given to Western Pennsylvania, the amount received is by no means large enough to carry on its work, leaving a great deal to be raised by the local society. Among the many gifts received none are more deserving of thanks and mention than those of time and work. Sunday School classes have sewed for the children. The play ground fence was put up by volunteer workers. For these we are most grateful but there still remains much to be provided for the upkeep of the Home.

An electric washer is badly needed, also a lawn mower. Two or three half high-chairs could be used in the dining room. Paint is needed for the fence. Then healthy children have healthy appetites. Think of the potatoes and all sorts of vegetables and fruits that can be used! We appeal to every friend of friendless children in Clearfield county for help to carry on this work which is not a new work which is only caring for "our

WHERE DID THEY GET IT?

Sombody must have bored a gimlet hole into old John Barleycorn's coffin, as we noted four or five drunks on the street last night. It might be a good plan to pick up these drunks when they show themselves and sweat them until they decide to tell where they got their booze.

PRESIDENTS WHO HAVE BEEN SOLDIERS

How many soldiers have been elected to the presidency of the United States? Well to begin with, there was Washington, a fact which every American is supposed to know. Equally well known is the military career of President Grant. And most people are probably able to recall the fact that Andrew Jackson and Zachary Taylor made their reputations on the battlefield.

But numerous other names are to be included in the list of Presidents who at one time or another in their careers saw active military service. Washington was not the only Revolutionary soldier who was honored with the presidency. James Monroe, as history records, made a creditable record as a lieutenant in the Continental Army.

Andrew Jackson had the longest active military career of any man ever elected to the presidency. He commanded an army during the War of 1812 and won a remarkable victory over the British near New Orleans. In addition he spent many years of his life in warfare against the Indians.

William Henry Harrison likewise was elected chief executive of the nation on the strength of his record as a commander in the second war with Great Britain. Harrison also was an Indian fighter. Still another of the Presidents who in earlier days had taken the field against the hostile redskins was Abraham Lincoln, who was an active participant in the Black Hawk War.

Zachary Taylor commanded the United States forces in the war with Mexico. In the same conflict Franklin Pierce won renown as a general and Ulysses S. Grant, a recent graduate of West Point, went to the front as a lieutenant.

Grant's successful career as a Union commander in the civil war landed him in the White House. Andrew Johnson held the rank of a brigadier-general and served as military governor of Tennessee during the conflict in the '60s. Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield and Benjamin Harrison were generals in the Army of the Cumberland. William McKinley entered the Union service as a private soldier and came out of it as a major. Theodore Roosevelt was a colonel in the war with Spain.

Every war of any consequence in which the United States has engaged since the struggle for independence has resulted in the election of one or more of its heroes to the presidency. Will the rule hold good in regards to the great war just ended?

The Y. Emma's will endeavor to repeat their performance of Thursday evening when they play Woodland today at the Driving park. The game at Woodland on Thursday evening turned out to be a victory for the "Y" team by the score of 5 to 4. This game was featured by the inability of the Woodland team to hit the slants of R. Although the "Y" team has not as yet been able to beat any other team besides Woodland (beat them three times), it is expected that with their present lineup that they will win a number of ball games.

When attacked acutely he will able along to the nearest hollow tree and smell out the bees, who in turn become highly indignant and sting the intruder unmercifully. But the bear doesn't mind. With a snort and shrug he ambles off home again. His headache has been cured by the bee stings.

You read your newspaper to get the latest news. To get all the news you should read the advertising columns as thoroughly as you do items of local, national or world wide interest.

For every advertisement is a news item. Each advertisement tells a story of its own—a story of economical interest to you and your family.

Advertisements tell you what, where and when you can buy to best advantage.

Advertisements keep you posted on the latest improvements in every article of human need, whether food, clothing, articles of household utility, necessities and luxuries.

Advertisements have established standards of quality for nearly everything. You insist on that quality when you buy—perhaps unconscious of the fact that advertising has implanted that standard of quality in your mind.

BAPTISM.

LESSON TEXTS—Matt. 28:19-20; Acts 2:41-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—For as many of you
put on Christ—Gal. 3:27.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 23:17; Acts 2:41, 23; 19:1-7; Col. 2:12; 1 Peter 3:21-22.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Christ Baptized by John.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Baptism of Jesus Christ.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—The Pledge of Christian Discipleship.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Significance and Importance of Christian Baptism.

I. The Apostles' Commission (Matt. 28:19-20).

1. The authority of Jesus. (v. 19). God gave him all authority in heaven and on earth. As mediator and coming king he possessed all authority. This authority extends over all the material world, angels, wicked men, devils, and his own people. God highly exalted him and gave him a name which is above every name (Phil. 2:9). There is no other way of salvation, for the entire matter of redemption is in his hands (Acts 4:12). Since God has so highly honored him it is extreme folly to expect to be saved while disregarding him.

2. The obligation of the apostles (vv. 19-20).

(1) It was to teach, that is, make disciples of all the nations (v. 19). They were to make known to the whole world that Christ had died to save sinners and that God had committed to Jesus the redemption of the world. Those who are Christ's disciples are bound to proclaim him to others.

(2) Baptize those who believe (v. 19). This is the divinely appointed way of making a public confession of faith in Christ. The disciples must publicly take a stand for Christ. The purifying effect of the blood of Christ and solemnly dedicate to the service of God. This baptism must be in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, showing that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach the disciples obedience (v. 20). Profession is not enough, it must issue in obedience. Faith must result in works. To call Jesus "Lord" and not do the things which he says profits nothing.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20). The Lord had told the disciples what would happen to them after he had gone away. He made it plain that "perils" of all kinds awaited them. Though the difficulties were great nothing mattered so long as they had the presence and fellowship of the all-powerful Savior and Lord.

II. The Baptism of the Eunuch (Acts 8:34-40).

1. Philip preached Jesus Christ to him (v. 35). At the invitation of the eunuch Philip joined himself to the chariot and found the eunuch reading from the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah. Beginning with this Scripture he preached Christ. He did not preach Christ as a great teacher, but as a savior who had suffered and died in stead of the sinner. He preached him as one who had offered himself as a ransom for many. The fact that the eunuch, a great statesman, needed an interpreter of the Scriptures, even such a plain passage as the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, shows the absolute need of a preacher. The printed page is valuable, but there will always be the need of a preacher. The gospel needs to be experienced before one can be a witness of its saving power.

2. The eunuch requesting baptism (v. 36).

When Christ is truly preached men naturally desire to confess him in baptism. In many quarters baptism has been unduly emphasized, but in others it has been disregarded. It is highly important that an intelligent understanding of its meaning be possessed; for that of which Jesus Christ gave an example and a command is highly important.

3. Philip baptizing the eunuch (v. 38). Having secured from the eunuch the proper confession Philip baptized him. It is faith in Christ that saves, but those who have genuine faith desire to seal it in baptism.

4. The eunuch rejoicing (v. 39). Confession of Christ brings joy. Those who obey the commandments of the Lord can go on their way rejoicing.

Jesus Saves.

As a child walking over a slippery and dangerous path cries out, "Father, I am falling," and has but a moment to catch his father's hand, so every believer sees hours when only the hand of Jesus comes between him and the abysses of destruction.—Cuyler.

Wise in Time.

"Nine-tenths of our wisdom lies in being wise in time," says a great statesman. As for as results are concerned, the wisdom that comes too late is often little better than folly. "If only I had thought of it when the chance offered, I might" is a prelude to many of our useless regrets.

Self Distrust Causes Failure.

In the assurance of strength there is strength; and they are the weakest, however strong, who have no faith in themselves or their powers.—Boyce.

Great Britain will have to pay to the United States over $100,000,000 in gold and silver to meet military obligations.

RELIGION IN RUSSIA

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 12.—The church is the only institution in Russia which the bolsheviks insist upon operating on a capitalistic basis. The bolsheviks threw out the church, as a state proposition, when they came into power and seized everything else.

Formerly the church and state were closely allied, the state supporting the thousands and thousands of mosques.

Russia probably had more churches per square mile than any other land in the world. In Moscow there are more churches per capita than there are movie theatres in Los Angeles, and the city block that does not have more than one is difficult to find.

It was a hard blow to the church when the bolsheviks got control of Russia. The bolsheviks are church-haters. According to them, the church was the means by which the czar regime duped the people. Religious holidays and religious ceremonies save the priests a tremendous influence over the superstitious peasant.

The bolsheviks consider it a wonderful accomplishment, the abolition of religious holidays, which they said prevented the Russian from getting anything done. There were as many as two or three saints' birthdays to commemorate each week according to the bolsheviks. The churchmen retaliated that the bolsheviks have not only cut off the holidays, but have also stopped work.

Following the fall of the Kerensky government, the churchmen doubled their efforts to stir up counter revolution, the bolsheviks say. The latter retaliated by completely severing church and state, and forcing the priests to rely on contributions from congregations for support.

Some churchmen adjusted themselves to the new conditions, others went to work, and still others are marking time in prison cells for being over-zealous against the bolshevik government. Congregations have fallen off, the many churches are open, incomes are limited to what the congregation cares to donate. They are now on the same financial basis as the American churches.

The tithe system is abolished, and no church can levy taxes. The bolsheviks further cut off the privilege of educating children, which was formerly done largely by the churchmen. Religion is separated from education.

In Russia it was the custom to worship the bones of saints, supposedly buried in churches throughout the land. The bolsheviks have partly completed a census of the bones of saints which is enlightening.

It shows already, say the bolsheviks, that certain saints of considerable renown had as many as twenty legs and more arms and heads, according to the number of churches which claim them.

Investigation of the tombs proved that many kinds of fakes had been committed by the priests to lead the simple-minded Russian to believe that he was worshipping a certain saint's bones. In some tombs the priests had stored money, food and wine, thinking the bolsheviks would never find it there.

The bolsheviks have conducted these investigations ruthlessly, and are giving them wide publicity. "Movies" are taken of many of the exposures, as far as the shortage of films will permit. Films for making movies is probably the article which the bolsheviks most need right now, considering its value in propaganda work.

All churches have not ceased to exist. In Moscow it is estimated that half of them are operating on the "capitalistic" basis and as independent institutions, and are fairly successful.

Many of the churchmen are trying to adjust themselves to the new conditions and are preaching a more modern thought. In this they are following the example of the Jewish rabbis, who have been more independent and advanced than the Russian churchmen. Some of the priests, adjusting themselves more than quickly to the bolshevik regime, have become apostles of Lenin.

Practically all of the churches have been un molested physically, and in Moscow their domes are still dazzling and golden in the skyline. Many of them are covered with gold plate, and a bolshevik proclamation prohibits anyone from removing the precious metal.

OBITUARY

GILBERT P. DREW

Mr. Drew departed this life at his home in this borough on Thursday night, July 10, 1919, at 11:35. Although his health had been declining for the past four years, he only took his bed on Monday evening, from which he never rose, his death resulting from complications. He was a man liked by all who knew him and had no enemies. Was always opposed to intemperance and always voted the prohibition ticket.

Mr. Drew was born in Enfield, Maine, 73 years ago last May. His earlier days here were spent at lumbering, having for over a quarter of a century been associated in that pursuit with the late Joseph Walker.

Beside his widow he leaves the following children: Mrs. A. Paul Kline, Greenville, N. C.; Nellie and Kress at home, and Mrs. M. E. Jordan, Clearfield, and also two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral services will be conducted at the home on South Second street at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. Hartman officiating, and interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

CATHERINE S. DOTTS

The oldest woman in the southern end of the county has gone to her reward. She was Catherine Stritzel Dotts, and was born in Philadelphia, Pa., on September 17, 1821, and died of infirmities incident to old age at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Holloper, Glen Hope, on the evening of July 7, 1919, at nearly 8 o'clock, aged almost 98 years. She was only ill for a short period and passed into everlasting sleep as peacefully as a child.

She was married to Philip Dotts on March 9, 1843, to which union there were born 11 children, six of whom are dead. Mr. Dotts died on March 16, 1902. He also made his residence at the Holloper home where he passed away as stated. Those who live to mourn a good Christian mother are: Mary, wife of F. W. Holloper, Glen Hope; William, living on the old homestead about two miles above Glen Hope; Philip, of Toptom, California; John, of New Milport; Margaret, wife of Maurice Hammer, Philadelphia. She has 36 grand-children, 42 great grand-children, and 7 great great grand-children. In the year 1861 the family moved to Clearfield county, settling on the Keagy farm, later acquiring land which they lived upon and on which a son, William, now resides.

Since the year 1901, grandmother Dotts has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Holloper. It was in 1902 when her husband passed away, and he too made his home with Mr. Holloper.

Deceased was a grand good woman, a fine mother and an excellent neighbor and was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church.

Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the north wind's breath.

And stars to set; but all—Thou hast all season for thine own, O Death!

Funeral services were held at her late home on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the Rev. Troutman, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Ansonville, officiated. Burial was made in the Fruit Hill cemetery. Funeral director, Roy Bratton.

WARREN CHRONICLE HAS DECIDED TO CEASE PUBLICATION

Announcement was made in the Thursday morning issue of the Warren Chronicle one of the best newspapers of Northern Pennsylvania, that the board of directors had decided to cease publication with that issue. PARK SERVICES ARE FINE

The community park services were an inspiration to all who came last Sunday evening. Rev. Smith gave a splendid Gospel sermon. Tomorrow evening at 7:30 an equally inspiring service will be held. Friends, "forget not the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is." "Those who can be there and are not to them it is sin." We have plenty of seating and every needed comfort. The singing is a very important part of the program. We expect to have a large choir and a fine orchestra. Bring your "Make Christ King" and be one of us, and "we will 'do' these goals."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE TWO FLIES.

"It's quite warm," said the plain fly. "We're in quite a warm spot," said the horse fly. "But it is true," said the plain fly. "What is it?" asked the horse fly. "Just what I said," remarked the plain fly proudly. "What did you say that was so true?" the horse fly asked. "It is too bad you couldn't remember my great and inspiring speeches. It is a shame you can't think for longer than a moment or a second," said the plain fly. "You see," said the plain fly, "I said it was quite warm, and then you said it was a warm spot. Then I said it was true just the same and you didn't seem to know what I was talking about when only a second before I had said it was warm. And it is true that it is warm here, even though it is a warm spot."

"And I do not care to hear your rude words, for I will be rude if anyone is to be rude." "Indeed," said the horse fly. "And why do you allow yourself such liberties?" "Because," said the plain fly, "I'm rude anyway. I go where I am not invited, and that is rude. I have seldom been invited anywhere, and so that is partly the reason why I go where I am unwelcome."

"Sometimes I am invited to certain places, but, oh, such places!" "Where are you asked to visit, pray tell?" asked the horse fly.

"Sometimes," said the plain fly, "I am asked to visit flypaper. Sometimes I am asked to visit a spider's web. And these invitations are very nice in one way, for they want me so much that they never want me to go back home again."

"But at the same time if I accepted them I could never go back home again, for I wouldn't be alive. That's simple, isn't it?"

"So, you see, I have to be rude and go where I am not invited. I am not polite. I do no good, and I often carry sickness with me and do a great deal of harm."

"I'm rude, and I admit it. I have but few invitations and I admit that, too, and the invitations I have are such as would kill me with kindness, or whatever you call it—I suppose it is kindness for them when I'm not around."

"So, horse fly, I allow myself to be rude."

And the plain fly kept moving its front legs over its head and moving its head, which seemed to be fastened in such a funny way to its body.

"I'm pretty rude myself," said the horse fly. "I go where I am not invited. I stick myself on people and I bite them and they find it is very, very hard to get rid of me."

"I am especially mean to horses. Yes, I am not only rude, but I am mean. So, plain fly, you cannot boast, for I am rude and horrid, too."

"It's funny to boast about being rude and horrid," said the plain fly, buzzing. "It would seem funny to some," said the horse fly, "but to two horrid creatures like ourselves it isn't funny. It is quite natural for us to boast of rudeness, for what else have we to boast of?"

"That's so," said the plain fly. "You're right."

"We're a good rude pair, or perhaps it would be more correct if I said a bad rude pair," said the horse fly. "And we don't care how much we go around uninvited, and that is the worst thing about us. For you can't do a thing with a creature who doesn't care whether it is rude or not."

"We're the kind of creatures not to be invited to or urged or coaxed," said the plain fly. "But it doesn't do us any good and it doesn't do them any good."

"The fact," laughed the horse fly, "was a mean old rude pair, we are, and our families are like us."

"I go where I am not invited."

STUCCO HOUSE AND ATTACHED GARAGE

An Exceptional Design for Those Seeking the Ultra Modern.

HOME BUILDING BOOM HERE

More Dwelling Construction These Days Than Ever Before—Unfailing Sign of Prosperity for Several Years Everywhere.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

The man who builds a home for himself and his family does not build a house that "will do." Ordinarily the house he puts up will provide him and the other members of his family with a home for a great many years. Of course, the foresighted man will not build such an out-of-the-ordinary house that it will not be readily salable, but he will put into his home the conveniences and comforts that he wants.

Because of these facts the selection of the design for the new home is an important matter. It is one of the things that should be given careful thought and everything that bears on it should be considered before the design finally is fixed upon. And right here let it be said that the local architect, the contractor and the material man all can give valuable advice at this stage of the project. They have had a great deal of experience in designing and building homes and they know the mistakes others have made and how to avoid them.

To many men a garage is an essential building. They want places where they can house their automobiles, where they will be available at all times and where they can do such work on the machines as is necessary to keep them in good running order.

Home With Garage.
The home shown in the accompanying design combines the modern home with a modern garage. It is a seven-room stucco house, with an exceptionally attractive exterior and an interior room arrangement that will appeal to everyone who wants the many conveniences and comforts the modern home contains.

The dimensions of this house are 34 by 40 feet 6 inches, exclusive of the front porch and sun parlor projection. The artistic sweep of roof on the house itself, the dormer window projection which breaks the roof line and the pergola-like roof over the porch and sun parlor all combine to give this house an unusual and attractive exterior appearance. The same architectural design is carried out in the garage, which is 19 by 12 feet, attached to a rear corner of the house.

The porch projection is divided into a porch and sun parlor, entrance to the house being through the latter. The porch is 14 by 10 feet, and the sun parlor the same size.

On the first floor are four rooms: living room, dining room, kitchen and den, the latter being on the same corner of the house as the garage. The living room is of the size and shape that is popular with present-day home builders. Its dimensions are 33 by 19 feet, and is a light and pleasant room. It is open on three sides and is plentifully supplied with windows, while at the end is a large open fireplace.

Opening off the living room are both dining room and kitchen, the latter separated from the front room by a hall out of which opens the stairs to the basement. The dining room is 20 by 13 feet 6 inches. The kitchen is 13 by 13 feet 6 inches. It will be seen from the floor plan that all the rooms are provided with built-in features that make housekeeping easy.

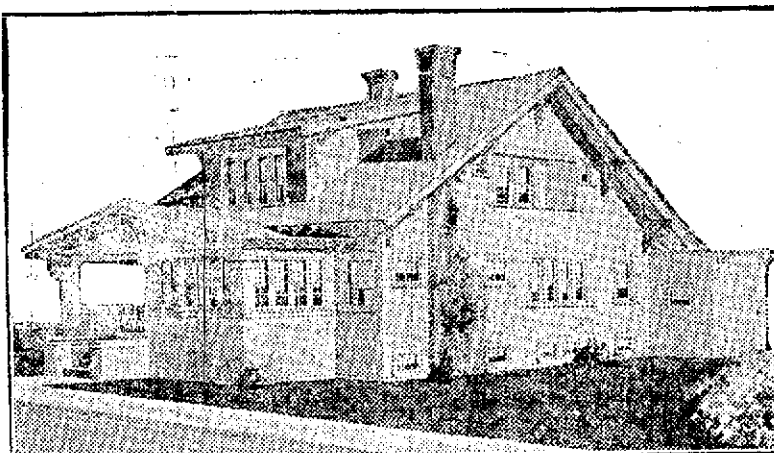

Three Bedrooms, Bath.
On the second floor are three bedrooms and bath, with an extraordinary amount of closet space, and a central hall.

The location of the garage in connection with the house, with an entrance directly to it, is the modern method of building houses for automobiles. Automobile owners have learned that in order to keep the machines in operation the year around the garage must be heated. When the garage is a part of the house itself this is done without much trouble or added expense.

The pergola roof of the garage and the roof of the side balcony are covered with canvas.

Under the whole of the house proper is a basement with concrete floor and walls. This is divided so as to keep the heating plant separate from the food and other storage rooms.

Stucco houses now are in great demand. They are of either standard frame, brick or hollow the construction, with stucco over either wood or metal lath or applied directly to the walls when hollow tile is used. Either of these materials make a house that is cool in summer and warm and easily heated in the winter. A home built from this design will be one of which any person can be proud, and at the same time it does not cost an exorbitant sum to erect.

Much Home Building.
Never before have so many persons been building homes as there are this year. The reasons are many. The general run of heads of families now are earning larger incomes than ever before. Rents have been advanced materially. At the same time the cost of building has not kept pace with the increase in incomes and rents. These are causes that have determined many thousands to build homes of their own.

Economically home owning is a great asset. The man who owns his home is looked upon as a stable, prosperous and thrifty member of the community. To him comes opportunities that pass by the man who rents. With all other things equal, the astute employer always gives preference to the home owner when an opportunity for advancement comes. He knows that the man who owns his home will stay, and is not so sure of the other fellow who has no ties to keep him on the job.

Aside from the patriotic motives that the government is urging to induce people to build homes so as to furnish employment for labor, there is every selfish reason why everyone who possibly can should build a home this year. They are the persons who will profit in the end.

Experts.
"Well, Sam, are you glad to get out of the army?"
"I sh' be, boss."

"It wasn't a hard life, I hope?"
"No, sah! De life wasn't so hard, but I ain't had a nickel to spend since de Lawd knows when. Den niggers in my regiment didn't know nothin' about drillin' an' salutin' de cap'n when they got to camp, but dey sho' had a lot of experience in shootin' craps."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Taken Literally.
While cleaning clothes with gasoline I sent my little girl, three and one-half years old, to get my kid gloves from the dresser drawer. She had them on when she came out and said: "Mother, why can't I wear these?" I said:

"Why, they are for ladies to wear!" she answered.
"Well, mother, you said they were kid gloves!"—Wisconsin News.

The TONE TEST proves that the NEW EDISON stands alone

"THE tone test advertises your instrument most effectively. Who evolved the idea?" a man once inquired of the makers of the New Edison. "The tone test evolved itself," was the reply. "It was inevitable that the final perfection of the phonograph should be accompanied by some convincing method of demonstrating its merit. It is not a device for advertising the instrument. It is merely a method of demonstrating the truth of our claim that it is impossible to distinguish the voice of the living artist from that of

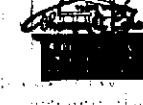

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

Unquestionably the tone test achieves this result. Picture a famous star of the Metropolitan Opera Company standing beside the New Edison on the concert platform. The instrument begins to play one of the diva's own RE-CREATIONS. In a moment, the singer joins in, making a duet. Suddenly the volume of sound diminishes. One or the other has ceased. The question is which; singer or instrument? So absolutely identical are the two renditions that no one, unless he watched the singer's lips, has ever been able to state when it was the singer he heard and when the New Edison.

It is only the New Edison which RE-CREATES the singer's voice. Other devices merely imitate it. It is only the New Edison which has been subjected to the searching tone test. No other instrument could sustain the test.

Call at our store tomorrow and hear a demonstration of this marvelous invention.

It Is Up to America to Justify the Experiment of Marriage by Proxy

By the MARCHIONESS OF TOWNSEND

The announcement that "American soldiers in France are to be permitted to marry by proxy in states where the law allows such procedure" has created a boom in the American marriage market; and a very good thing, too.

I am interested to see the result of marriage by proxy. Curiously enough, Australia would have none of it. In fact, the mere suggestion of such a law was literally howled down in Australia.

Though I object to the proposal on principle it has its good points. Bearing a man's name, for instance, often protects a woman from attentions from other men.

Then marriage in these mad days is an anchor which keeps many a weak human bark off the quicksands, and gives a girl a better social standing than a long-drawn-out engagement.

And marriage by proxy would be a financial benefit in many cases. It would give a man an opportunity to help financially the woman he loves, or endow her with his world's goods without Mrs. Grundy turning up her nose.

But I think marriage by proxy a dangerous innovation, and not at all likely to cure the unrest on the part of separated lovers, nor will it revive "waning affections."

Human nature and modern conditions are against it. Both men and women find separation a strain. Faithful in thought, they miss the companionship which is natural. Some day the loneliness becomes unbearable, and there's the rub.

However, it is up to America to justify this bold experiment, as she has justified many another.

THE FAIR GARDNER

Come into the garden, Maud,
In a cretonne dress so gay
And a cretonne hat and a cretonne mat
To kneel on as you may.

But if you haven't all these things,
Believe me when I say,
Keep out of the garden, Maud
You'd better stay away.

BY MARGARET RHOE
(Written for The United Press)

NEW YORK, July 11—My, My, how garden fashions have changed, not only since the days of Eve but just since the war! Only last summer farmerettes in trouserettes sowed and hoed in these severest, most efficient and practical of garden uniforms. This summer fluffy ruffles and flowery fabrics are absolutely essential to the complete gardeness' peace of mind and garden garb success.

One particular new model garden garment is such a fetching affair that any gardenless female immediately starts planting something, if it's only in a window box so she can qualify to don one.

Made up of a charmingly patterned cretonne of either pink or blue stripes on a cream ground with pink rosebuds and green leaves scattered hither and yon, the new garden dress has short above-the-elbow sleeves edged with a cuff of ruffled white organdie. The front of the skirt is adorned with a simulated round apron ruffle edged with a ruffled bow of the organdie and a ruffled bow of the organdie. The cunning hand painted tin was simulated round apron ruffle edged with a ruffled bow of the organdie and a ruffled bow of the organdie. CAPTAIN MCLAIN OF INDIANA TAKES FRENCH GIRL BRIDE

INDIANA, Pa., July 10.—Capt. Charles L. McLain, aged 29, of this place, commander of Company F, One Hundred and Tenth United States Infantry, during the fighting in France and twice cited for distinguished service, was united in marriage to Miss Berthe-The, aged 23, a resident of the suburbs of Paris, on July 4. Capt. McLain was detached from his company in March and was given a scholarship in civil engineering at the Son Bonne University in France as a reward for excellent service. Accompanied by his bride he expects to sail from Brest for the United States immediately, and when mustered out will locate in Indiana. His wife was a volunteer nurse in France.

Capt. McLain is a son of Maj. and Mrs. C. C. McLain of East Philadelphia street. His grandfather, the late G. Adams McLain, was a captain in the Civil War. His father was a captain in the Spanish-American War and later was promoted to major. Two brothers served in the world war.

Capt. McLain entered the National Guard of Pennsylvania when a youth worked up to captain. He commanded Company F, Tenth Regiment, of his place on the Mexican border and remained its commander when the regiment was made the One Hundred and Tenth United States Infantry. He was cited for distinguished service for repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action of the Marne river, France, July 15, 1918, and at Apremont, Sept. 29, 1918. He was an observer with the French when the enemy attack on the Marne river started, July 15, 1918. All of the officers of an infantry company having been killed or wounded he voluntarily reorganized the remainder of the company and successfully fought his way through the enemy, upon two occasions being surrounded. He was badly gassed in this operation. When his company reached its objective at Apremont, the entrance to the Argonne forest, on Sept. 29, 1918, Capt. McLain found that another company was without officers. He voluntarily assumed command of it and led the first wave. He was wounded, but continued in action until the objective was reached.

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE

A District Institute of the W. C. T. U. was held in the beautiful new M. E. church at Wallacetown yesterday. It was conducted by Mrs. S. C. Wilson and proved quite interesting as well as instructive. A large number of members were present from the Unions included in the group. Institute opened with singing and prayer by Mrs. Richards. Mrs. Wilson then gave an informing talk on "The Object of Institutes," namely to know and gain the very best methods. "Our Part in the Victory Campaign" was ably told by Mrs. Trezise, among other things stating that the W. C. T. U. followed the Crusade in Ohio, numbers of whom are still living to see the result of their great movement. Mrs. Trezise gave much credit to Mrs. S. C. Wilson for the great work she has done. Also state that the "Victory Convention" will meet in DuBois 5th and 6th of September. Mrs. Wilson stated there had never been such a response as now for membership, and that now instead of a 50,000 goal, a double membership is expected.

"Why and How to Secure the Million Dollars," an explanatory talk by the County Treasurer, Mrs. Mattern, carried conviction of the feasibility of the project. Articles on the cigarette were read by Mrs. Woolridge, followed by Mrs. Chorpensing, Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Mattern. Mrs. Wilson gave known instances of deaths of young boys from this cause.

"Child Welfare" was introduced in a reading by Mrs. Robb, discussed by Trezise, Wilson and Bouton, all of which were most pathetic. "Americanization" by Mrs. Albert was discussed. Two hundred thousand of the million dollar fund to be devoted to this purpose. "Humane Education," of which Mrs. S. C. Wilson is State Superintendent, came last. Institute by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The evening session opened with a song service and devotion. A fine address was made by Rev. Lawson, also addresses by Mrs. Trezise and Mrs. Wilson in their usual happy style. The ladies of Wallacetown certainly deserve, and have the warmest thanks of the members for their beautiful and delicious entertainment.

What makes gardening what it is to-day.

But when you consider the lilacs, how they grow the peas and beans in a row, and then think of the elaborate costumes required for the fair gardeners who make the lilacs, peas and beans in this row, it certainly seems to take a bit of sewing to do a bit of sewing.

Senators Discuss Possibility And Probability
Of Keeping Wilson In Washington Instead
Of Him Going On Cross Country TourOne Says President Can More Effectively
Serve Country At Desk
Than On The Stump

RESOLUTION TO BE PRESENTED

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 12—An attempt to prevent the President from making his cross country tour by keeping him in daily attendance on the Senate Foreign Relations committee was discussed by opponents of the League of Nations today. Senator Moses will introduce a resolution requesting that the President attend the sessions which will begin at ten a. m. each day. "I think the President could more effectively serve his country in this manner than by making stump speeches," said Senator Moses. Many Democratic senators would like to see President Wilson take advantage of the invitation of the Senate Committee in Washington to stay with them in order that they may have first hand information on the many points which are confusing and which are casting doubt on the efficacy of the league.

PITTSBURGH BREWERY OFFICIALS
ENTER DEMURRERS TO CHARGES

PITTSBURGH, July 12—Demurrers were filed before Federal Court Judge W. H. S. Thompson in the United States District Court here today by the eleven officials of the Pittsburgh Brewing company who were named by U. S. District Attorney Crawford on charges of violating the war time prohibition act in selling a quantity of beer to a local saloonkeeper which contained more than the legal one-half of one per cent. alcohol. The brewers are seeking a definite ruling on what constitutes a violation of the act.

Should the position of the government be maintained it is said at the office of the U. S. District Attorney that every brewer in this section of the state or in that district known as the Western District, who has been selling beer of over one half of one per cent. alcohol will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

There was a fair sized audience at the West Side Church last evening to hear the concert given by the Sunday School orchestra under the direction of Prof. Oscar W. Schaeffer.

Every number on the program was a feature number but the real outstanding piece of artistry was a trio arranged for violin, cello and piano, by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schaeffer and Miss Myra Shaw. While these artists have often delighted Clearfield audiences it is a question if they ever produced music as beautiful as last night's number.

Taken from any standpoint it was a rare musical treat all through and it is to be hoped that the same performers will soon have something of the same nature to offer.

HALF MILLION DAMAGE AT BRADFORD

BRADFORD, July 12—At least a half million dollars damage was done by the storm which hit this place Thursday. The local chapter of the Red Cross is today making an inspection of the devastated district with a view to giving relief, and sanitation is in charge of the Sanitary Department of the 112th Infantry which has volunteered for the work.

BEATEN SENSELESS AT HIS DESK

NEW YORK, July 12—Beaten senseless while sitting in his office, Gardiner C. Hull, senior member of the stationary firm of Hull & Dappish, is believed to be dying. He was found by a porter who had been absent only fifteen minutes. Police declined to state whether the motive is known. It was not robbery as his personal effects were not disturbed.

Regular monthly meeting of W. C. T. U. will be held at home of Mrs. M. J. Bowes on Nichols street Monday evening.

MR. BEATTY PURCHASED THE
MAHAFFEY TIMES

It will be a surprise to many of our readers to learn that the Mahaffey Times has been purchased by J. S. Beatty, of Punxsutawney, Pa., from Thomas V. Bowen who has been associated with the paper almost the entire time since it was first published in November 1911, first as a mechanic, second as editor and manager and finally as owner and publisher.

The new editor was formerly a linotype operator on the Punxsutawney Spirit and Indiana Gazette and has just returned from overseas service. He edited a service paper for several months following the signing of the armistice.

His father Harry Beatty, of Punxsutawney, is a native of Bell township and thus Editor Beatty is returning to his "native heath" by locating at Mahaffey.

The Progress welcomes the new proprietor to the field of Clearfield county journalism and wishes him every success in his venture.

THE MESSAGE OF THE

The Centenary movement is vital to all churches and as many as can possibly do so should attend tomorrow's service at Trinity church and hear Dr. Bender's message.

OILING DIRT STREETS

The work of oiling the dirt streets of the borough with a view to keeping down the dust was begun yesterday by a crew of men under the direction of Street Commissioner Graham.

DEFENDANT SAYS
"IT CAN'T BE DID"

Some two weeks ago Samuel E. Maines, of Paradise, through his attorney Deputy Attorney General W. L. Swoope, entered suit in the Clearfield county courts against his neighbor W. A. Henchbarger in which he sought to recover $1000 for injury to his feeling, peace of mind and general reputation in the community by reason of certain statements made to and about the prosecutor by the defendant in the presence of a couple of other neighbors of the parties.

The defendant by his attorneys Chase & Chase makes answer to the charge in an affidavit of defense filed in the Prothonotary's office yesterday, a copy of which appears herewith.

Stripped of its legal phraseology he statement admits the statements alleged to be damaging but will require that strict proof be made of the allegations that the plaintiff's reputation and standing in the community could be ripped, damaged, assaulted or dynamited to the amount named in the bill of particulars filed. But we are unable to pass upon that point, as that will be done by a jury later. Here is the statement, read it for yourself:

"W. A. Henchbarger, the party upon whom the plaintiff's statement in the above action was served, claims to have a full, true and complete defense to all of the plaintiff's claims in the above stated action, however denying the necessity of making answer to the said statement, the nature and character of which is as follows:

1st. The first paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is admitted.

2d. The second paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied for the purpose of requiring proof thereof.

3d. The third paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied and strict proof is required of all the facts therein set forth and especially of the fact therein alleged that the said Samuel E. Maines is a good, true, honest and virtuous inhabitant of this Commonwealth and requires strict proof that the said Samuel E. Maines remained free and was esteemed in repute, a person of good name, fame, credit and reputation. However, strict proof is required of the whole of the plaintiff's statement.

4th. The fourth paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied.

5th. The fifth paragraph of the plaintiff's statement is denied in whole and it is further stated that the defendant herein never believed that the plaintiff could be brought into public disrepute or that he could be injured and defamed in the esteem of his neighbors.

6th. As to the sixth paragraph of the plaintiff's statement the defendant denies and requires strict proof thereof and especially as to that part of the said paragraph wherein it says further that the said plaintiff has been greatly hurt and injured in his good name, fame and reputation aforesaid and that he could be brought into disrepute and disrepute among his neighbors.

7th. As to the seventh paragraph of the plaintiff's statement same is denied, strict proof being required thereof.

Signed: W. A. HENCHBARGER.

SENATOR BRANDEGEE
RUTHLESSLY SCORES
LEAGUE OF NATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 12—The Republican Publicity Association, thru its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington Headquarters:

"Americanism will not lack for vigorous protection as long as the Senate contains such members as Hon. Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut. He does not mince words in stating his position on the league of nations, and his determination to stand to the last in upholding the oath he took to defend the Constitution. In a statement recently issued by Mr. Brandegee he uses the following language:

"This country has had three critical shocks.

"First, achieving its independence.

"Second, framing its constitution.

"Third preserving the Union under the constitution.

"We are now confronted with the fourth crisis. It is, shall we preserve our independence or surrender it?"

"I am an American and nothing else. I am a United States Senator and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. I have taken oath to preserve and protect the Constitution of the United States and, so help me God, I am going to do it. I thoroughly realize the responsibility which rests upon me and I propose to use my best judgment that God has given me without fear or favor.

"The so-called covenant for the league of nations which the Executive has made, is, in my mind, a hideous monstrosity. I shall not vote for it till hell freezes over, and I think that event is probably somewhat remote. I am not to be lured by any lingo about 'humanity' or the moral forces of the world or voices in the air."

"I am for upholding the American flag and not for hauling it down. I am for the Stars and Stripes, and not for the milk white flag of neutral internationalism. I am for the America of George Washington. I believe America can best serve humanity by minding its own business. I am not ready to cast this country into the witches' cauldron of international complications. Are we to tax our people, conscript our boys and fight the battles of the world to please somebody's idealism? I am utterly opposed to the league and in favor of peace. I do not believe it will become a party issue, but I will leave the Republican party the minute it stands for the league."

"In giving utterance to those trenchant expressions of patriotism Senator Brandegee knows that he but echoes the sentiments of an overwhelming majority of his New England constituents. They have inherited the blood of distinguished Revolutionary ancestors, who did not hesitate to declare and fight for their independence from the oppression of the most powerful nation in the world. The country is now threatened with the coercion by force of arms unless we are willing to surrender the independence won by the fathers of the country, and consent to slip back into the condition of subservience from which the Revolution rescued us. The odds against us now are great but not so heavy as those that confronted the Colonists. The world never saw more virile courage than was exhibited by those great men. Is it possible that the American quality of patriotism is not of as high a standard now as it was in '76?"

VALUABLE POINTERS IN REGARD TO NEW FISH LAWS

State Game Commissioner E. W. Kelly returned home last evening from Harrisburg where he gained information in regard to both newly passed hunting and fishing laws that will be learned with interest by local sportsmen.

On the 9th day of this month a bill was signed by Governor Sproul legalizing a catch of 25 trout in one day and with no size limit as a curtailment. The action to this and several other bills mentioned below takes effect on the 11th day of July 1919.

A statement must first be sent to the State Fish department however, giving the names of streams in which the applicant wishes to use either of the methods. The permit will be issued by the department free of charge together with complete instructions so that no misunderstanding will occur.

Another change made in the game laws of the state is that from now on both skunks and musk-rats will be fully protected from out of season hunting.

The bill fails to make mention, however upon whom the responsibility for the enforcement of the latter order would occur.

WORK OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY NOT
LOCAL, BUT COUNTY AND DISTRICT WIDE

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania (of which Clearfield C. A. S. is an auxiliary), held at Uniontown, Pa., June 4th, 5th, and 6th, one of the main points of discussion was the lack of publicity given to the work of the Society, its members being generally too busy to tell the public what they were doing.

The Clearfield Society feels that it has been remiss in this respect to a very large degree, thus giving rise to much misconception of its work. The Society is first, last and all the time a child placing agency, the object being to provide for the welfare of destitute and neglected children by such means as shall be best for them and for the community. While the Clearfield County Society is located at Clearfield, it is in no sense a borough organization, but children are cared for from any county in its district, which embraces practically all of Western Pennsylvania. It has children today in good homes in Washington, Mercer, Clinton, Allegheny, Green and many other counties and is caring for many from the same counties. It often being better for children to be taken entirely away from their old surroundings. Wards of the Society find a refuge in the Children's Home where they are boarded and cared for until good permanent homes are found, it being the aim to bring the "homeless child" and the "childless home" together.

During the past year we have had in our care ninety children. Of these some have been returned to friends, some have found free homes, two have been legally adopted, two have died, some placed in institutions and we still have 46 for whom we are responsible. No child is placed in a home own.

The present officers are: President, Mrs. Frank B. Reed 1st Vice President, Mrs. H. B. Powell. 2nd Vice President, Mrs. A. E. Leitzinger.

Secretary, Mrs. Chas. T. Kurtz Asst. Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Dufton Treasurer, Mrs. Roll B. Thompson Supt. of Home, Miss Grace Hoyt. The Society is very grateful to its friends for all the generous donations and support it has received, especially since moving into the new home! For, though Clearfield gets its share of the State appropriation given to Western Pennsylvania, the amount received is by no means large enough to carry on its work, leaving a great deal to be raised by the local society. Among the many gifts received none are more deserving of thanks and mention than those of time and work. Sunday School classes have sewed for the children. The play ground fence was put up by volunteer workers. For these we are most grateful but there still remains much to be provided for the upkeep of the Home.

An electric washer is badly needed, also a lawn mower. Two or three half high-chairs could be used in the dining room. Paint is needed for the fence. Then healthy children have healthy appetites. Think of the potatoes and all sorts of vegetables and fruits that can be used! We appeal to every friend of friendless children in Clearfield county for help to carry on this work which is not a new work and which is only caring for "our own."

PARIS, July 12.—The Council of Five began today the issuing of instructions on the cessation of the blockade against Germany. The body will also consider the lifting of the blockade against Russia.

WORK OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY NOT LOCAL, BUT COUNTY AND DISTRICT WIDE

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania (of which Clearfield C. A. S. is an auxiliary), held at Uniontown, Pa., June 4th, 5th, and 6th, one of the main points of discussion was the lack of publicity given to the work of the Society, its members being generally too busy to tell the public what they were doing.

The Clearfield Society feels that it has been remiss in this respect to a very large degree, thus giving rise to much misconception of its work. The Society is first, last and all the time a child placing agency, the object being to provide for the welfare of destitute and neglected children by such means as shall be best for them and for the community. While the Clearfield County Society is located at Clearfield, it is in no sense a borough organization, but children are cared for from any county in its district, which embraces practically all of Western Pennsylvania. It has children today in good homes in Washington, Mercer, Clinton, Allegheny, Green and many other counties and is caring for many from the same counties. It often being better for children to be taken entirely away from their old surroundings. Wards of the Society find a refuge in the Children's Home where they are boarded and cared for until good permanent homes are found, it being the aim to bring the "homeless child" and the "childless home" together.

During the past year we have had in our care ninety children. Of these some have been returned to friends, some have found free homes, two have died, been legally adopted, two have died, some placed in institutions and we still have 46 for whom we are responsible. No child is placed in a home own."

An electric washer is badly needed, also a lawn mower. Two or three half high-chairs could be used in the dining room. Paint is needed for the fence. Then healthy children have healthy appetites. Think of the potatoes and all sorts of vegetables and fruits that can be used! We appeal to every friend of friendless children in Clearfield county for help to carry on this work which is not a new work and which is only caring for "our

WHERE DID THEY GET IT?

Sombody must have bored a gimlet hole into old John Barleycorn's coffin, as we noted four or five drunks on the street last night. It might be a good plan to pick up these drunks when they show themselves and sweat them until they decide to tell where they got their booze.

PRESIDENTS WHO HAVE BEEN SOLDIERS

How many soldiers have been elected to the presidency of the United States? Well to begin with, there was Washington, a fact which every American is supposed to know. Equally well known is the military career of President Grant. And most people are probably able to recall the fact that Andrew Jackson and Zachary Taylor made their reputations on the battlefield.

But numerous other names are to be included in the list of Presidents who at one time or another in their careers saw active military service. Washington was not the only Revolutionary soldier who was honored with the presidency. James Monroe, as history records, made a creditable record as a lieutenant in the Continental Army.

Andrew Jackson had the longest active military career of any man ever elected to the presidency. He commanded an army during the War of 1812 and won a remarkable victory over the British near New Orleans. In addition he spent many years of his life in warfare against the Indians.

William Henry Harrison likewise was elected chief executive of the nation on the strength of his record as a commander in the second war with Great Britain. Harrison also was an Indian fighter. Still another of the Presidents who in earlier days had taken the field against the hostile redskins was Abraham Lincoln, who was an active participant in the Black Hawk War.

Zachary Taylor commanded the United States forces in the war with Mexico. In the same conflict Franklin Pierce won renown as a general and Ulysses S. Grant, a recent graduate of West Point, went to the front as a lieutenant.

Grant's successful career as a Union commander in the civil war landed him in the White House. Andrew Johnson held the rank of a brigadier-general and served as military governor of Tennessee during the conflict in the '60s. Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield and Benjamin Harrison were generals in the Army of the Cumberland. William McKinley entered the Union service as a private soldier and came out of it as a major. Theodore Roosevelt was a colonel in the war with Spain.

Every war of any consequence in which the United States has engaged since the struggle for independence has resulted in the election of one or more of its heroes to the presidency. Will the rule hold good in regards to the great war just ended?

Although the "Y" team has not as yet been able to beat any other team besides Woodland (beat them three times), it is expected that with their present lineup that they will win a number of ball games.

When attacked acutely he will able along to the nearest hollow tree and smell out the bees, who in turn become highly indignant and sting the intruder unmercifully. But the bear doesn't mind. With a snort and shrug he ambles off home again. His headache has been cured by the bee stings.

You read your newspaper to get the latest news. To get all the news you should read the advertising columns as thoroughly as you do items of local, national or world wide interest.

For every advertisement is a news item. Each advertisement tells a story of its own—a story of economical interest to you and your family.

Advertisements tell you what, where and when you can buy to best advantage.

Advertisements keep you posted on the latest improvements in every article of human need, whether food, clothing, articles of household utility, necessities and luxuries.

Advertisements have established standards of quality for nearly everything. You insist on that quality when you buy—perhaps unconscious of the fact that advertising has implanted that standard of quality in your mind.

BAPTISM.

LESSON TEXTS—Matt. 28:19-20; Acts 2:41-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—For as many of you
put on Christ—Gal. 3:27.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 23:17; Acts 2:41, 23; 19:1-7; Col. 2:12; 1 Peter 3:21-22.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Christ Baptized by John.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Baptism of Jesus Christ.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—The Pledge of Christian Discipleship.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Significance and Importance of Christian Baptism.

I. The Apostles' Commission (Matt. 28:19-20).

1. The authority of Jesus. (v. 19). God gave him all authority in heaven and on earth. As mediator and coming king he possessed all authority. This authority extends over all the material world, angels, wicked men, devils, and his own people. God highly exalted him and gave him a name which is above every name (Phil. 2:9). There is no other way of salvation, for the entire matter of redemption is in his hands (Acts 4:12). Since God has so highly honored him it is extreme folly to expect to be saved while disregarding him.

2. The obligation of the apostles (vv. 19-20).

(1) It was to teach, that is, make disciples of all the nations (v. 19). They were to make known to the whole world that Christ had died to save sinners and that God had committed to Jesus the redemption of the world. Those who are Christ's disciples are bound to proclaim him to others.

(2) Baptize those who believe (v. 19). This is the divinely appointed way of making a public confession of faith in Christ. The disciples must publicly take a stand for Christ. The purifying effect of the blood of Christ and solemnly dedicate to the service of God. This baptism must be in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, showing that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach the disciples obedience (v. 20). Profession is not enough, it must issue in obedience. Faith must result in works. To call Jesus "Lord" and not do the things which he says profits nothing.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20). The Lord had told the disciples what would happen to them after he had gone away. He made it plain that "perils" of all kinds awaited them. Though the difficulties were great nothing mattered so long as they had the presence and fellowship of the all-powerful Savior and Lord.

II. The Baptism of the Eunuch (Acts 8:34-40).

1. Philip preached Jesus Christ to him (v. 35). At the invitation of the eunuch Philip joined himself to the chariot and found the eunuch reading from the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah.

Beginning with this Scripture he preached Christ. He did not preach Christ as a great teacher, but as a Savior who had suffered and died in stead of the sinner. He preached him as one who had offered himself as a ransom for many. The fact that the eunuch, a great statesman, needed an interpreter of the Scriptures, even such a plain passage as the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, shows the absolute need of a preacher. The printed page is valuable, but there will always be the need of a preacher. The gospel needs to be experienced before one can be a witness of its saving power.

2. The eunuch requesting baptism (v. 36).

When Christ is truly preached men naturally desire to confess him in baptism. In many quarters baptism has been unduly emphasized, but in others it has been disregarded. It is highly important that an intelligent understanding of its meaning be possessed; for that of which Jesus Christ gave an example and a command is highly important.

3. Philip baptizing the eunuch (v. 38). Having secured from the eunuch the proper confession Philip baptized him. It is faith in Christ that saves, but those who have genuine faith desire to seal it in baptism.

4. The eunuch rejoicing (v. 39). Confession of Christ brings joy. Those who obey the commandments of the Lord can go on their way rejoicing.

Jesus Saves.

As a child walking over a slippery and dangerous path cries out, "Father, I am falling," and has but a moment to catch his father's hand, so every believer sees hours when only the hand of Jesus comes between him and the abysses of destruction.—Cuyler.

Wise in Time.

"Nine-tenths of our wisdom lies in being wise in time," says a great statesman. As for as results are concerned, the wisdom that comes too late is often little better than folly. "If only I had thought of it when the chance offered, I might" is a prelude to many of our useless regrets.

Self Distrust Causes Failure.

In the assurance of strength there is strength; and they are the weakest, however strong, who have no faith in themselves or their powers.—Boyce.

Great Britain will have to pay to the United States over $100,000,000 in gold and silver to meet military obligations.

RELIGION IN RUSSIA

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 12.—The church is the only institution in Russia which the bolsheviks insist upon operating on a capitalistic basis. The bolsheviks threw out the church, as a state proposition, when they came into power and seized everything else.

Formerly the church and state were closely allied, the state supporting the thousands and thousands of mosques.

Russia probably had more churches per square mile than any other land in the world. In Moscow there are more churches per capita than there are movie theatres in Los Angeles, and the city block that does not have more than one is difficult to find.

It was a hard blow to the church when the bolsheviks got control of Russia. The bolsheviks are church-haters. According to them, the church was the means by which the czar regime duped the people. Religious holidays and religious ceremonies save the priests a tremendous influence over the superstitious peasant.

The bolsheviks consider it a wonderful accomplishment, the abolition of religious holidays, which they said prevented the Russian from getting anything done. There were as many as two or three saints' birthdays to commemorate each week according to the bolsheviks. The churchmen retaliated that the bolsheviks have not only cut off the holidays, but have also stopped work.

Following the fall of the Kerensky government, the churchmen doubled their efforts to stir up counter revolution, the bolsheviks say. The latter retaliated by completely severing church and state, and forcing the priests to rely on contributions from congregations for support.

Some churchmen adjusted themselves to the new conditions, others went to work, and still others are marking time in prison cells for being over-zealous against the bolshevik government. Congregations have fallen off, the many churches are open, incomes are limited to what the congregation cares to donate. They are now on the same financial basis as the American churches.

The tithe system is abolished, and no church can levy taxes. The bolsheviks further cut off the privilege of educating children, which was formerly done largely by the churchmen. Religion is separated from education.

In Russia it was the custom to worship the bones of saints, supposedly buried in churches throughout the land. The bolsheviks have partly completed a census of the bones of saints which is enlightening.

It shows already, say the bolsheviks, that certain saints of considerable renown had as many as twenty legs and more arms and heads, according to the number of churches which claim interned members of saint's bodies. Investigation of the tombs proved that many kinds of fakes had been committed by the priests to lead the simple-minded Russian to believe that he was worshipping a certain saint's bones. In some tombs the priests had stored money, food and wine, thinking the bolsheviks would never find it there.

The bolsheviks have conducted these investigations ruthlessly, and are giving them wide publicity. "Movies" are taken of many of the exposures, as far as the shortage of films will permit. Films for making movies is probably the article which the bolsheviks most need right now, considering its value in propaganda work.

All churches have not ceased to exist. In Moscow it is estimated that half of them are operating on the "capitalistic" basis and as independent institutions, and are fairly successful.

Many of the churchmen are trying to adjust themselves to the new conditions and are preaching a more modern thought. In this they are following the example of the Jewish rabbis, who have been more independent and advanced than the Russian churchmen. Some of the priests, adjusting themselves more than quickly to the bolshevik regime, have become apostles of Lenin.

Practically all of the churches have been un molested physically, and in Moscow their domes are still dazzling and golden in the skyline. Many of them are covered with gold plate, and a bolshevik proclamation prohibits anyone from removing the precious metal.

There will be a meeting of Bogoslovskaya school board at Bigo Hall Monday July 21, 1919 at 1 P. M. when members for the coming term will be elected. Bids will also be received for furnishing the various schools with coal and kerosene, also cleaning of school rooms, by order of board.

OBITUARY

GILBERT P. DREW

Mr. Drew departed this life at his home in this borough on Thursday night, July 10, 1919, at 11:15. Although his health had been declining for the past four years, he only took his bed on Monday evening, from which he never rose, his death resulting from complications. He was a man liked by all who knew him and had no enemies. Was always opposed to intemperance and always voted the prohibition ticket.

Mr. Drew was born in Enfield, Maine, 73 years ago last May. His earlier days here were spent at lumbering, having for over a quarter of a century been associated in that pursuit with the late Joseph Walker.

Beside his widow he leaves the following children: Mrs. A. Paul Kline, Greenville, N. C.; Nellie and Kress at home, and Mrs. M. E. Jordan, Clearfield, and also two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral services will be conducted at the home on South Second street at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. Hartman officiating, and interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

CATHERINE S. DOTTS

The oldest woman in the southern end of the county has gone to her reward. She was Catherine Stritzel Dotts, and was born in Philadelphia, Pa., on September 17, 1821, and died of infirmities incident to old age at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Holloper, Glen Hope, on the evening of July 7, 1919, at nearly 8 o'clock, aged almost 98 years. She was only ill for a short period and passed into everlasting sleep as peacefully as a child.

She was married to Philip Dotts on March 9, 1843, to which union there were born 11 children, six of whom are dead. Mr. Dotts died on March 16, 1902. He also made his residence at the Holloper home where he passed away as stated. Those who live to mourn a good Christian mother are: Mary, wife of F. W. Holloper, Glen Hope; William, living on the old homestead about two miles above Glen Hope; Philip, of Toptom, California; John, of New Milport; Margaret, wife of Maurice Hammer, Philadelphia. She has 36 grand-children, 42 great grand-children, and 7 great great grand-children. In the year 1861 the family moved to Clearfield county, settling on the Keagy farm, later acquiring land which they lived upon and on which a son, William, now resides.

Since the year 1901, grandmother Dotts has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Holloper. It was in 1902 when her husband passed away, and he too made his home with Mr. Holloper. Deceased was a grand good woman, a fine mother and an excellent neighbor and was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church.

Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the north wind's breath.

Funeral services were held at her late home on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the Rev. Troutman, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Ansonville, officiated. Burial was made in the Fruit Hill cemetery. Funeral director, Roy Bratton.

DIVORCE ACTION BEGUN

E. L. Boose, Esq., filed a divorce petition in the Prothonotary's office this morning in which Charles Hewitt asks for a divorce from his wife Anna Johnson Hewitt. The Hewitts were married June 17, 1908, and according to the statement filed, a wife took her little dishes and beat it hard to demoralization, there is likely from the Hewitt household ever since. DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE TWO FLIES.

"It's quite warm," said the plain fly. "We're in quite a warm spot," said the horse fly. "But it is true," said the plain fly. "What is it?" asked the horse fly. "Just what I said," remarked the plain fly proudly. "What did you say that was so true?" the horse fly asked. "It is too bad you couldn't remember my great and inspiring speeches. It is a shame you can't think for longer than a moment or a second," said the plain fly. "You see," said the plain fly, "I said it was quite warm, and then you said it was a warm spot. Then I said it was true just the same and you didn't seem to know what I was talking about when only a second before I had said it was warm. And it is true that it is warm here, even though it is a warm spot."

"And I do not care to hear your rude words, for I will be rude if anyone is to be rude." "Indeed," said the horse fly. "And why do you allow yourself such liberties?" "Because," said the plain fly, "I'm rude anyway. I go where I am not invited, and that is rude. I have seldom been invited anywhere, and so that is partly the reason why I go where I am unwelcome."

"Sometimes I am invited to certain places, but, oh, such places!" "Where are you asked to visit, pray tell?" asked the horse fly. "Sometimes," said the plain fly, "I am asked to visit flypaper. Sometimes I am asked to visit a spider's web. And these invitations are very nice in one way, for they want me so much that they never want me to go back home again."

"But at the same time if I accepted them I could never go back home again, for I wouldn't be alive. That's simple, isn't it?" "So, you see, I have to be rude and go where I am not invited. I am not polite. I do no good, and I often carry sickness with me and do a great deal of harm."

"I'm rude, and I admit it. I have but few invitations and I admit that, too, and the invitations I have are such as would kill me with kindness, or whatever you call it—I suppose it is kindness for them when I'm not around."

"So, horse fly, I allow myself to be rude."

And the plain fly kept moving its front legs over its head and moving its head, which seemed to be fastened in such a funny way to its body.

"I'm pretty rude myself," said the horse fly. "I go where I am not invited. I stick myself on people and I bite them and they find it is very, very hard to get rid of me."

"I am especially mean to horses. Yes, I am not only rude, but I am mean. So, plain fly, you cannot boast, for I am rude and horrid, too."

"It's funny to boast about being rude and horrid," said the plain fly, buzzing. "It would seem funny to some," said the horse fly, "but to two horrid creatures like ourselves it isn't funny. It is quite natural for us to boast of rudeness, for what else have we to boast of?"

"That's so," said the plain fly. "You're right."

"We're a good rude pair, or perhaps it would be more correct if I said a bad rude pair," said the horse fly. "And we don't care how much we go around uninvited, and that is the worst thing about us. For you can't do a thing with a creature who doesn't care whether it is rude or not."

"We're the kind of creatures not to be invited to or urged or coaxed," said the plain fly. "But it doesn't do us any good and it doesn't do them any good."

"The fact," laughed the horse fly, "was a mean old rude pair, we are, and our families are like us."

STUCCO HOUSE AND ATTACHED GARAGE

An Exceptional Design for Those Seeking the Ultra Modern.

HOME BUILDING BOOM HERE

More Dwelling Construction These Days Than Ever Before—Unfailing Sign of Prosperity for Several Years Everywhere.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

The man who builds a home for himself and his family does not build a house that "will do." Ordinarily the house he puts up will provide him and the other members of his family with a home for a great many years. Of course, the foresighted man will not build such an out-of-the-ordinary house that it will not be readily salable, but he will put into his home the conveniences and comforts that he wants.

Because of these facts the selection of the design for the new home is an important matter. It is one of the things that should be given careful thought and everything that bears on it should be considered before the design finally is fixed upon. And right here let it be said that the local architect, the contractor and the material man all can give valuable advice at this stage of the project. They have had a great deal of experience in designing and building homes and they know the mistakes others have made and how to avoid them.

To many men a garage is an essential building. They want places where they can house their automobiles, where they will be available at all times and where they can do such work on the machines as is necessary to keep them in good running order.

Home With Garage.

The home shown in the accompanying design combines the modern home with a modern garage. It is a seven-room stucco house, with an exceptionally attractive exterior and an interior room arrangement that will appeal to everyone who wants the many conveniences and comforts the modern home contains.

The dimensions of this house are 34 by 40 feet 6 inches, exclusive of the front porch and sun parlor projection. The artistic sweep of roof on the house itself, the dormer window projection which breaks the roof line and the pergola-like roof over the porch and sun parlor all combine to give this house an unusual and attractive exterior appearance. The same architectural design is carried out in the garage, which is 19 by 12 feet, attached to a rear corner of the house.

The porch projection is divided into a porch and sun parlor, entrance to same time it does not cost an exorbitant sum to erect.

Much Home Building.

Never before have so many persons been building homes as there are this year. The reasons are many. The general run of heads of families now are earning larger incomes than ever before. Rents have been advanced materially. At the same time the cost of building has not kept pace with the increase in incomes and rents. These are causes that have determined many thousands to build homes of their own.

Economically home owning is a great asset. The man who owns his home is looked upon as a stable, prosperous and thrifty member of the community. To him comes opportunities that pass by the man who rents. With all other things equal, the astute employer always gives preference to the home owner when an opportunity for advancement comes. He knows that the man who owns his home will stay, and is not so sure of the other fellow who has no ties to keep him on the job.

Aside from the patriotic motives that the government is urging to induce people to build homes so as to furnish employment for labor, there is every selfish reason why everyone who possibly can should build a home this year. They are the persons who will profit in the end.

Experts.

"Well, Sam, are you glad to get out of the army?" "I sh' is, boss."

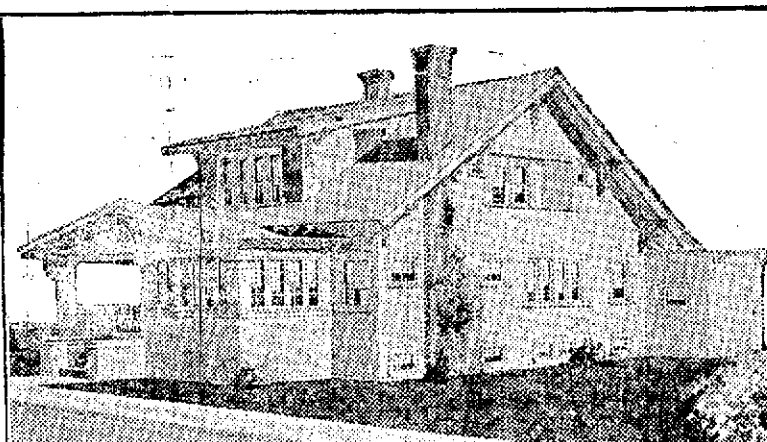

"It wasn't a hard life, I hope?" "No, sah! De life wasn't so hard, but I ain't had a nickel to spend since de Lawd knows when. Dea niggers in my regiment didn't know nothin' about drillin' an' salutin' de cap'n when they got to camp, but dey sho' had a lot of experience in shootin' craps."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Taken Literally.

While cleaning clothes with gasoline I sent my little girl, three and one-half years old, to get my kid gloves from the dresser drawer. She had them on when she came out and said: "Mother, why can't I wear these?" I said:

"What are they for ladies to wear?" she answered.

"Well, mother, you said they were kid gloves."—Wisconsin News.

The house being through the latter. The porch is 14 by 10 feet, and the sun parlor the same size.

On the first floor are four rooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and den, the latter being on the same corner of the house as the garage. The living room is of the size and shape that is popular with present-day home builders. Its dimensions are 33 by 19 feet, and is a light and pleasant room. It is open on three sides and is plentifully supplied with windows, while at the end is a large open fireplace.

The second floor has three bedrooms and bath, with an extraordinary amount of closet space, and a central hall.

The location of the garage in connection with the house, with an entrance directly to it, is the modern method of building houses for automobiles. Automobile owners have learned that in order to keep the machines in operation the year around the garage must be heated. When the garage is a part of the house itself this is done without much trouble or added expense.

The TONE TEST proves that the NEW EDISON stands alone

"THE tone test advertises your instrument most effectively. Who evolved the idea?" a man once inquired of the makers of the New Edison. "The tone test evolved itself," was the reply. "It was inevitable that the final perfection of the phonograph should be accompanied by some convincing method of demonstrating its merit. It is not a device for advertising the instrument. It is merely a method of demonstrating the truth of our claim that it is impossible to distinguish the voice of the living artist from that of

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

Unquestionably the tone test achieves this result. Picture a famous star of the Metropolitan Opera Company standing beside the New Edison on the concert platform. The instrument begins to play one of the diva's own RE-CREATIONS. In a moment, the singer joins in, making a duet. Suddenly the volume of sound diminishes. One or the other has ceased. The question is which; singer or instrument? So absolutely identical are the two renditions that no one, unless he watched the singer's lips, has ever been able to state when it was the singer he heard and when the New Edison.

It is only the New Edison which RE-CREATES the singer's voice. Other devices merely imitate it. It is only the New Edison which has been subjected to the searching tone test. No other instrument could sustain the test.

Call at our store tomorrow and hear a demonstration of this marvelous invention.

RESERVATIONS IN RATIFICATION OF LEAGUE LIKELY

WASHINGTON, July 11—There were visible signs of weakening in the ranks of the Democratic senators who have been insisting upon ratification of the peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant without reservations or amendment.

It is strongly intimated that some of the reservations to be proposed by the Republicans anti-league senators will be accepted by the Democrats to save the treaty from rejection.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, one of the foremost pro-league senators, and a member of the foreign relations committee, said in an interview that certain of the reservations may be supported by the Democrats. He added, however, that they would not accept any changes which would render the covenant "an egg with only a shell and nothing in it which would hatch."

The statement by Senator Swanson is highly significant and is the first intimation that has come from the administration side that compromise with the foes of the league might be agreed to in order to make final ratification of the treaty possible. The anti-league senators have boasted during the past week that they have the votes to prevent ratification unless the reservations are made and the suggestion of compromise is an indication that the administration forces realize that there may be a basis to the claim.

In addition to Senator Swanson's statement there appeared an article from a writer said to be close to the White House in which it is suggested that the difference between the President and foes of the league are not so great as they seem and it is further suggested that the President may not be unwilling to accept reservation which would strengthen the covenant. The article, which has every appearance of being inspired contained this significant language:

"Nor is there much ground for the supposition that because Mr. Wilson, as is his custom, at the outset of every legislative fight, gives an impression of uncompromising opposition to opposition to amendment that he will object ultimately to written interpretation of treaty provision, which is, after all his oral interpretation."

This statement would seem to indicate the President may be desirous of "getting together" with the senate on amendments to the treaty.

Senator Swanson made plain what the answer of the administration forces will be to the attack of anti-league senators on Shantung award in the treaty. He declared that Japan is justified in holding the material resources of China to repay her for the cost of ridding China of the German influence.

It is apparent that Senator Swanson's statement that the administration senators will take the position that Japan is entitled to recompense for this act and that they will fall back upon the President's statement that he believes Japan will withdraw from the Shantung peninsula after a reasonable time.

In answer to this Senator Borah, of Idaho called attention to the fact that Chinese delegates at the conference stated that China was willing to pay Japan. This offer was not only rejected, but the control of the peninsula and of the 40,000,000 inhabitants was taken away also.

GOBS SWEEPING MINES PLANTED IN NORTH SEA

(By United Press)

LONDON. (By Mail.)—Eighty U. S. Navy mine sweepers are busy today in the North Sea at a job almost as dangerous and, from the viewpoint of shipping, quite as important as hunting submarines.

They are clearing away the largest mine barrage in the world. This barrage, nearly 80 per cent American-made and American-laid mines, is about 200 miles long and 45 miles wide. It closes the North Sea from Scotland to Norway.

The task has already resulted in a casualty toll of four vessels damaged, one officer killed and others wounded. The U. S. S. Bobolink, the first victim, had her stern blown in by an exploding mine. Lieutenant Bruce was killed. Several other officers and men, knocked overboard, were rescued. The U. S. S. Patuxent was badly damaged about the stern and the U. S. S. Rail slightly damaged. All were of about 1,000 tons. The fourth was a smaller boat.

Captain Sexton, U. S. Naval chief of staff in England, said the Americans are getting "hep" to the under-taking and overcoming many of its difficulties.

Thus far the fleet has covered an area containing 4,000 mines. Of these 45 per cent have been accounted for. Where the remaining 65 per cent are, nobody knows. Captain Sexton estimated the mine hunt would keep the sweepers busy until October or November. It involves a personnel of about 2,500.

When the word was first mouthed around through the lanks that American gobs were going to pick up the mines they helped to lay a short time before, the general opinion was that it would be one of the most thrilling jobs yet. And no one has been disappointed. Equipped with maps showing approximately where every mine was dropped, the flotilla started out in twos, each pair dragging a cable between them.

The mines, the map said were sown in strings. All the sweepers had to do was to straddle the line, pass from one end to the other, and the cable, between them, would do the rest.

Of course, the particular mine in question wouldn't be the only one to go off. The concussion would always set off others immediately adjoining, and probably still others adjoining these. These two exigencies were provided for on the map under the titles "zone of extreme danger," "zone of possible danger" and beyond that "zone of safety." In addition, there would be a few other mines free-lancing around in all three zones.

The first few days were rather disastrous. Captain Sexton and his staff in London began to dread opening the morning's dispatches. Gradually, with Yankee resourcefulness, the Americans seemed to be getting on top of the job, until now Captain Sexton is confident they are going to clean up the assignment with minimum losses.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Mrs. Rebekah Dumbleton and little son of Philipsburg who have been visiting relatives here for several days, returned to their homes yesterday.

A very enjoyable dance was held at the Moose Hall Thursday evening. A number of out-of-town guests were present.

Meuder Brunetti who has been with the A. E. F. in France for more than a year, has been given a five weeks' furlough which he will spend with a sister living in the northern part of Italy, before being returned to this country.

A number of Curwensville boys will spend Sunday at Camp Bonar, Lumbertown, as guests of the Clearfield and Punxsutawney boys who are camping there.

John Kopec is erecting a house on North Anderson avenue.

Misses Helen Traister and Edna Moore of South Side are visiting Miss Grace Peightal at Philipsburg, Pa.

Harry Bilger of North Pine street transacted business at Danville, Pa., this week.

Jno. Broome of Millersburg, Pa., who attended the funeral of his brother, the late Walter Broome, at Brookville, Pa., on Thursday, spent yesterday at this place.

Wm. Bartelle of Naulton who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Clearfield hospital several days ago, is convalescing nicely.

Curwensville citizens are planning to give the town one rousing big time on Labor Day. According to current reports, everybody will have a finger in the pie.

THE RIGHT KIND OF CITIZEN

H. B. Swoope, the Madera coal operator, is sure an asset to his home town. Madera, while the metropolis of Bigler township, remains an unincorporated village, and as such is denied many local improvements while the needs of the township generally are being provided for.

Recently Mr. Swoope had an estimate made of the cost of paving with brick of the township road leading from Main street to the Pennsylvania station at the extreme end of the village. The estimate placed the cost of such improvement at $9,000 and Mr. Swoope made a proposition to the supervisors of the township to pay two-thirds the cost of the paving providing the township would supply the remainder. Supervisors Ruffner, Shoff and Vrahel were progressive enough to accept Mr. Swoope's generous offer and the road will be built. Clearfield would appreciate and could find places for several public-spirited citizens like Mr. Swoope.

It Is Up to America to Justify the Experiment of Marriage by Proxy

By the MARCHIONESS OF TOWNSEND

The announcement that "American soldiers in France are to be permitted to marry by proxy in states where the law allows such procedure" has created a boom in the American marriage market; and a very good thing, too.

I am interested to see the result of marriage by proxy. Curiously enough, Australia would have none of it. In fact, the mere suggestion of such a law was literally howled down in Australia.

Though I object to the proposal on principle it has its good points. Bearing a man's name, for instance, often protects a woman from attentions from other men.

Then marriage in these mad days is an anchor which keeps many a weak human bark off the quicksands, and gives a girl a better social standing than a long-drawn-out engagement.

And marriage by proxy would be a financial benefit in many cases. It would give a man an opportunity to help financially the woman he loves, or endow her with his world's goods without Mrs. Grundy turning up her nose.

But I think marriage by proxy a dangerous innovation, and not at all likely to cure the unrest on the part of separated lovers, nor will it revive "waning affections."

Human nature and modern conditions are against it. Both men and women find separation a strain. Faithful in thought, they miss the companionship which is natural. Some day the loneliness becomes unbearable, and there's the rub.

However, it is up to America to justify this bold experiment, as she has justified many another.

THE FAIR GARDNER

Come into the garden, Maud,
In a cretonne dress so gay
And a cretonne hat and a cretonne mat
To kneel on as you may.

But if you haven't all these things,
Believe me when I say,
Keep out of the garden, Maud
You'd better stay away.

BY MARGARET RHOE
(Written for The United Press)

NEW YORK, July 11—My, My, how garden fashions have changed, not only since the days of Eve but just since the war! Only last summer farmerettes in trouserettes sowed and hoed in these severest, most efficient and practical of garden uniforms. This summer fluffy ruffles and flowery fabrics are absolutely essential to the complete gardeness' peace of mind and garden garb success.

One particular new model garden garment is such a fetching affair that any gardenless female immediately starts planting something, if it's only in a window box so she can qualify to don one.

Made up of a charmingly patterned cretonne of either pink or blue stripes on a cream ground with pink rosebuds and green leaves scattered hither and yon, the new garden dress has short above-the-elbow sleeves edged with a cuff of ruffled white organdie. The front of the skirt is adorned with a simulated round apron ruffle edged with a ruffled white organdie and a ruffled white organdie. The cunning hand painted tin was simulated round apron ruffle edged with a ruffled white organdie and a ruffled white organdie. CAPTAIN MCLAIN OF INDIANA TAKES FRENCH GIRL BRIDE

INDIANA, Pa., July 10.—Capt. Charles L. McLain, aged 29, of this place, commander of Company F, One Hundred and Tenth United States Infantry, during the fighting in France and twice cited for distinguished service, was united in marriage to Miss Berthe-The, aged 23, a resident of the suburbs of Paris, on July 4. Capt. McLain was detached from his company in March and was given a scholarship in civil engineering at the Son Bonne University in France as a reward for excellent service. Accompanied by his bride he expects to sail from Brest for the United States immediately, and when mustered out will locate in Indiana. His wife was a volunteer nurse in France.

Capt. McLain is a son of Maj. and Mrs. C. C. McLain of East Philadelphia street. His grandfather, the late G. Adams McLain, was a captain in the Civil War. His father was a captain in the Spanish-American War and later was promoted to major. Two brothers served in the world war. Capt. McLain entered the National Guard of Pennsylvania when a youth worked up to captain. He commanded Company F, Tenth Regiment, of his place on the Mexican border and remained its commander when the regiment was made the One Hundred and Tenth United States Infantry. He was cited for distinguished service for repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action of the Marne river, France, July 15, 1918, and at Apremont, Sept. 29, 1918. He was an observer with the French when the enemy attack on the Marne river started, July 15, 1918. All of the officers of an infantry company having been killed or wounded he voluntarily reorganized the remainder of the company and successfully fought his way through the enemy, upon two occasions being surrounded. He was badly gassed in this operation. When his company reached its objective at Apremont, the entrance to the Argonne forest, on Sept. 29, 1918, Capt. McLain found that another company was without officers. He voluntarily assumed command of it and led the first wave. He was wounded, but continued in action until the objective was reached.

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE

A District Institute of the W. C. T. U. was held in the beautiful new M. E. church at Wallacetown yesterday. It was conducted by Mrs. S. C. Wilson and proved quite interesting as well as instructive. A large number of members were present from the Unions included in the group. Institute opened with singing and prayer by Mrs. Richards. Mrs. Wilson then gave an informing talk on "The Object of Institutes," namely to know and gain the very best methods. "Our Part in the Victory Campaign" was ably told by Mrs. Trezise, among other things stating that the W. C. T. U. followed the Crusade in Ohio, numbers of whom are still living to see the result of their great movement. Mrs. Trezise gave much credit to Mrs. S. C. Wilson for the great work she has done. Also state that the "Victory Convention" will meet in DuBois 5th and 6th of September. Mrs. Wilson stated there had never been such a response as now for membership, and that now instead of a 50,000 goal, a double membership is expected.

"Why and How to Secure the Million Dollars," an explanatory talk by the County Treasurer, Mrs. Mattern, carried conviction of the feasibility of the project. Articles on the cigarette were read by Mrs. Woolridge, followed by Mrs. Chorpensing, Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Mattern. Mrs. Wilson gave known instances of deaths of young boys from this cause.

"Child Welfare" was introduced in a reading by Mrs. Robb, discussed by Trezise, Wilson and Bouton, all of which were most pathetic. "Americanization" by Mrs. Albert was discussed. Two hundred thousand of the million dollar fund to be devoted to this purpose. "Humane Education," of which Mrs. S. C. Wilson is State Superintendent, came last. Institute by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The evening session opened with a song service and devotion. A fine address was made by Rev. Lawson, also addresses by Mrs. Trezise and Mrs. Wilson in their usual happy style. The ladies of Wallacetown certainly deserve, and have the warmest thanks of the members for their beautiful and delicious entertainment.

That makes gardening what it is to-day.

But when you consider the flies, how they grow the peas and beans in a row, and then think of the elaborate costumes required for the fair gardeners who make the flies, peas and beans in this row, it certainly seems to take a bit of sewing to do a bit of sewing.
